Beta Theta Pi

An annual event, the three-day "Barn Dance" party was the prominent event of the year for the men of Beta Theta Pi.

In the week before the party, pledges built a barn near the house to give the party its authentic look. The fall party began with a hayride and proceeded to a country and western dance. The final day of the party brought entertainment to the house with the comical country/rock 'n' roll band, Bowley and Wilson.

But the Barn Dance wasn't the only social event for the men of the Gamma Phi Chapter. "Victory Party," "OU-Texas Weekend Party" and the Dad's Day "Casino Party" were also held in the fall. The spring semester brought on the Valentine's formal and "Beta Lei," the last major party of the year.

Over the years, the men of the Gamma Phi Chapter distinguished themselves in a number of ways. The chapter won the Interfraternity Council Scholarship Trophy 25 of the 35 years it was offered, and captured the All-Greek Intramural Trophy 13 out of 24 years. Even the house itself was distinguished: it was the only fraternity house in the nation on the National Register of Historic Places.

BARNSTORMING. The annual fall "Barn Dance" party brings out the rugged side of the men of the Gamma Phi Chapter. Traditionally, pledges construct the barn in the week prior to the three-day social event.
